HEALTHCARE — LIVE —

INTELLIGENT. PERSONALIZED. ALWAYS-ON.

By 2030, healthcare will be an intelligent, real-time, and self-learning ecosystem—where data, AI, and automation seamlessly converge to power precision care. This shift will redefine how providers deliver care, how payers manage risk, how health tech innovates, and how life sciences accelerate discovery.

The transformation from reactive to proactive, episodic to continuous, and fragmented to hyper-connected care will demand more than just technology—it will require continuous evaluation, reengineering, and adoption of new business and clinical processes. Success will hinge on how effectively organizations adapt people, workflows, and operating models. At the same time, widening access gaps, physician shortages, and rising cost pressures—driven by changing demographics, rapid urbanization, and economic constraints—will push healthcare to adopt AI-driven efficiencies, personalized and whole-health models, and new standards of affordable, high-quality care.

AI-infused decision-making, personalized and on-demand care, and converged data frameworks will define this era. Healthcare will be Live—an ecosystem that is real-time, self-learning, autonomous, and hyper-intelligent. The next decade belongs to always-on, real-time healthcare.

8:30 AM - 8:40 AM	– Opening Remarks	Addison Ballroom
8:40 AM - 9:00 AM	– Health Mantra 2025 Welcome by Rajan Kohli, CEO, CitiusTech
9:00 AM - 10:00 AM	– Keynote Session To be announced
10:00 AM - 10:45 AM Panel Discussion	– AI as the New OS: Rewiring the Healthcare Enterprise Genome for 2030. AI is no longer just a tool—it’s becoming the operating system of healthcare enterprises. CXOs must rethink workflows, restructure leadership roles, and drive organization-wide AI adoption to stay competitive in a fully autonomous, intelligent future.
10:45 AM - 11:15 AM	– AM Break and Innovation Zone	Estate I & II
11:15 AM - 12:00 PM Panel Discussion	– Hyper-Converged Data: The Path to Predictive, Preventive, Personalized Healthcare. Health data is the most valuable asset in healthcare, yet it remains fragmented across Big Tech, hospitals, insurers, and patients. Hyper-converged data ecosystems unify disparate sources—EHRs, claims, genomics, and real-world evidence—to create a single source of truth. This transformation enables predictive analytics, early disease detection, and hyper-personalized care pathways, shifting care from reactive to proactive.	Addison Ballroom
12:00 PM - 1:00 PM	– Lunch and Networking	Estate I & II
1:00 PM - 1:15 PM	– Energizer	Addison Ballroom
1:15 PM - 1:50 PM Fire-side Chat	– Why This Time, It’s Different: The Inevitable Healthcare Transformation Healthcare has long awaited its technology revolution—but this time, it’s real. AI-driven productivity, seamless data integration, and next-gen operating models are finally breaking long-standing barriers. With rising patient expectations and unprecedented scalability, the industry is at a true inflection point. This discussion explores why transformation is now inevitable—and how organizations can seize the moment.
